Trimester Program

Course Title: Spanish and Latin American Film

Contact hours: 50 (approx. 3 semester credits)

Course Content:

The subject main objective is, through the viewing and study of Spanish and Latin American films, to analyse the narrative mechanisms that define cinema as a specific artistic manifestation. With this point of departure, and beginning with a cinematographic glance, different aspects from the Hispanic culture will be presented in order to reflect on the aesthetic and social phenomena. The student will work on critical reviews, analyses, creative works, and will conduct comparative studies that will allow him or her to develop their communicative abilities and their capacity for synthesis.
