Superior Level
Universidad de Salamanca Language & Culture Program

This course will help students effectively use the Spanish language as a communicative instrument. In order to achieve this, special attention will be given to the development of strategies and techniques that will allow the student to effectively navigate the following channels of communication: reading, writing, speaking, and listening.

Grammar is studied to help students make effective use of the language and to speak, read and, write like native speakers or with the same natural ease that the student has with his/her own language. In order to be able to actively use Spanish, students need to improve their comprehension. In the advanced level, students will be discussing and debating in their own defense about different topics. This course allows for a fast and effective development in the different channels of communication in Spanish and facilitates for the students a practical and active development in their capacity to use the Spanish language, putting in practice the knowledge acquired in Spanish grammar classes.
