

COURSE NAME: PROFESSIONAL AND SOCIAL ETHICS

UFV CODE: 4249 ECTS: 4.5

TYPE OF COURSE: LC, 2C

INTERNATIONAL CODE: HUM4249 YEAR: 5

REQUIREMENTS: HUM4248

OBJECTIVES: To understand ethical terminology and its meaning when applied to a professional work situation. To critically analyze the ethical dimension of professional decisions and determine the general principles of professional moral conduct. To understand the codes of professional ethics and their requirements and to analyze and critically appraise human and professional conduct

COURSE DESCRIPTION: After an introduction to the general principles of morality that provide the backbone of social reality and guide human conduct in society, students will go on to consider the moral aspects and specific problems caused by practising a profession, understood as the ethics of providing services to other people.

(Focusing on the fields of: Legal-business, Bio-health, Communication and Engineering)

BIBLIOGRAPHY: KOTLER, P.: AGEJAS, J.A.: El arte de aprender la libertad: Curso de ética. Spiritus Media, Madrid 2003

METHODOLOGY: Lectures and case studies

EVALUATION: Continuous assessment and final exam

PROFESSOR: José Ángel Agejas Esteban LANGUAGE: Spanish